

Handwritten text in a dense, cursive script, likely a legal or administrative document. The text is written on a grid of lines. The script is highly decorative and difficult to decipher. It appears to be a form of early modern Spanish or Italian cursive. The text is divided into several sections by horizontal lines. There are some large, stylized initials or flourishes throughout. The overall appearance is that of a historical manuscript or record book.

Second section of handwritten text, continuing in the same dense, cursive style. It follows a similar pattern of lines and includes various flourishes and large initials. The text is very compact and appears to be a continuation of the document above.

