

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a legal or administrative document. The text is dense and spans most of the page. It appears to be a record of a council or court session, mentioning various matters and decisions. The script is highly stylized and characteristic of the late 15th or early 16th century.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, continuing from the first block. It begins with a large initial 'P' and contains several lines of text. The content seems to be a continuation of the same document, possibly detailing further proceedings or a specific case. The handwriting is consistent with the first block.

