

Handwritten text in a dense, cursive script, likely a medieval manuscript. The text is arranged in approximately 15 horizontal lines across the upper two-thirds of the page. The ink is dark, and the script is highly stylized with many loops and flourishes. The text is difficult to decipher due to the cursive style and some fading.

Sapne

libzani

mate

Handwritten text in a dense, cursive script, continuing from the top section. It is arranged in approximately 10 horizontal lines across the lower third of the page. The script is consistent with the top section, featuring many loops and flourishes. The text is difficult to decipher due to the cursive style and some fading.