

Handwritten text in a dense, cursive script, likely a legal or administrative document. The text is written in a dark ink on aged, yellowed paper. The script is highly stylized and difficult to decipher. The document appears to be a record or a set of regulations, possibly related to the town of Murcia, as indicated by the page number and the footer.

122

