

Handwritten text in a medieval script, possibly Latin or a Romance language. The text is written in a cursive style with many abbreviations and ligatures. It appears to be a legal or administrative document, possibly a charter or a record of a transaction. The text is arranged in approximately 20 lines, with a large decorative initial at the bottom center.

