

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a list or account. The text is written in dark ink and is oriented vertically on the page. It appears to be a list of names or entries, possibly related to a historical record or a collection of documents. The script is highly stylized and characteristic of the 17th or 18th century.

Faint, illegible handwritten text, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page. The text is very light and difficult to read, but it appears to be organized into several lines or paragraphs. The script is the same cursive style as the text at the top of the page.
