

desus advenit... (The text is a dense Latin manuscript, likely a legal or historical document, written in a cursive hand. It contains numerous lines of text, some of which are partially obscured by white marks or damage to the parchment. The text appears to be a formal record or a set of regulations, mentioning various names and titles, such as 'Sunt' and 'Xtusos'. The script is highly stylized and difficult to decipher in many places due to the cursive nature and the condition of the document.)

... (This block contains the final lines of the document, including what appears to be a signature or a concluding statement. The text is written in the same cursive hand as the main body of the document. There is a large, decorative flourish or signature at the end of the page.)
