

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a legal or administrative document. The text is dense and covers most of the upper half of the page. There are several lines of text that appear to be crossed out or heavily scribbled over with dark ink.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, continuing from the top section. The text is less dense than the top section and appears to be a continuation of the same document. There are some large, sweeping strokes and some text that is partially obscured by a large scribble.
