

Handwritten text at the top of the page, possibly a title or introductory note, written in a cursive script. It includes a small musical notation symbol on the right side.

Ura
Handwritten text block, likely a musical staff or a section of a letter, containing several lines of cursive script.

Ura
Handwritten text block, continuing the cursive script from the previous section.

Handwritten text block, possibly a section header or a specific instruction, written in cursive.

Handwritten text block, the largest section on the page, containing multiple lines of cursive script, possibly a musical score or a detailed letter.

