

Handwritten Latin text, likely a legal document or record. The script is dense and cursive, characteristic of medieval manuscripts. The text begins with several lines of script that are partially obscured by a large, faint, handwritten mark or signature in the upper left corner. The main body of text consists of approximately 12 lines of dense handwriting. At the bottom of this section, there are several lines of text that appear to be a separate entry or a distinct part of the document, starting with a small 'p'.

Handwritten Latin text, continuing from the previous section. This section consists of approximately 12 lines of dense, cursive handwriting. The text is well-preserved and clearly legible. At the bottom of this section, there are several lines of text that appear to be a separate entry or a distinct part of the document, starting with a small 'p'.