

Handwritten text in Old English script, likely a charter or legal document. The text is written in a dense, cursive hand with some red ink used for initials or headings. It appears to be a record of land grants or legal proceedings.

Handwritten marginal note or signature in Old English script, possibly indicating a date or a specific location.

Second block of handwritten text, continuing the narrative or list of events. The script is consistent with the first block, showing a high level of literacy in the Old English period.

Marginal note or signature on the right side of the second block.

Third block of handwritten text, detailing further legal or administrative matters. The use of red ink is prominent, highlighting key names or titles.

Marginal note or signature on the right side of the third block.

Fourth block of handwritten text, showing a continuation of the document's content. The handwriting remains clear and legible.

Marginal note or signature on the right side of the fourth block.

Fifth block of handwritten text, with some lines appearing to be underlined or otherwise emphasized. This may indicate a specific clause or agreement.

Marginal note or signature on the right side of the fifth block.

Sixth block of handwritten text, continuing the sequence of entries. The script shows some variations in ink density and line spacing.

Marginal note or signature on the right side of the sixth block.

Seventh block of handwritten text, featuring a mix of black and red ink. The text is well-preserved and clearly written.

Marginal note or signature on the right side of the seventh block.

Eighth block of handwritten text, showing a dense arrangement of words and phrases. The script is consistent throughout the page.

Marginal note or signature on the right side of the eighth block.

Ninth block of handwritten text, the final main entry on the page. It concludes with a signature or seal area.

Marginal note or signature on the right side of the ninth block.

Final handwritten note or signature at the bottom right of the page, possibly a date or a reference to another document.

Handwritten note or signature in the left margin, possibly a reference to a specific section or a correction.

Another handwritten note or signature in the left margin, further down the page.

