

Main body of handwritten text in a cursive script, spanning several lines across the upper half of the page.

A large, decorative flourish or initial letter on the right side of the page.

Decorative flourishes and smaller handwritten elements located below the main text block.

