

Handwritten text in a medieval script, likely Latin or Spanish, on a heavily stained and damaged parchment fragment. The text is arranged in several lines, with some words appearing to be in a larger, bolder script, possibly indicating a title or a significant section. The ink is dark and the parchment is a mottled brown color with significant water damage and staining, particularly along the right edge and bottom.

Continuation of the handwritten text, appearing as a dense block of script. The text is significantly obscured by heavy staining and discoloration, making it difficult to decipher. The script remains consistent with the top section, suggesting it is part of the same document.

Final section of the handwritten text on the fragment. The text is very faint and heavily obscured by staining, particularly in the lower right quadrant. Some words are barely legible, but the overall structure of the text appears to be a continuous narrative or list.

