

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a list or account, with several lines of entries. The text is difficult to decipher due to fading and bleed-through from the reverse side of the page.

