and common in the upper part of the valley. The valley is about 10 miles long, and contains several small streams which have their headwaters in the mountains above. The valley floor is flat and sandy, with some small trees and shrubs. The soil is very poor and rocky, and there are no large fields or pastures. The people here are mostly farmers and laborers, and they grow corn, beans, and other crops. They also raise cattle and sheep, and keep bees for honey. The houses are simple and made of wood, and the people live in them. The valley is surrounded by mountains, and the air is cool and fresh. The water is clear and cold, and there are many fish in the streams. The people here are friendly and hospitable, and they welcome visitors.

the day before we were released to go to school, but we were so anxious to get home we did not care.
Dad had to go to work at night so we had to stay at home all day. We were so excited to see our friends again.
