

Handwritten text in a medieval script, likely Latin or Spanish. The text is dense and covers most of the page, with some lines appearing to be crossed out or heavily corrected. The script is cursive and difficult to decipher without specialized knowledge of the language and period.

