

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or letter. The text is written on aged, yellowed paper and is heavily crossed out with numerous diagonal and horizontal lines, rendering much of the original content illegible. The script is dense and flowing, characteristic of early modern handwriting. The text appears to be a letter or a formal document, possibly related to a legal or administrative matter, given the use of terms like "subrept" and "subreptus". The document is signed at the bottom with a large, stylized signature.