

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a legal or historical document, covering the upper half of the page. The text is densely packed and spans across several lines.

A distinct line of handwritten text, possibly a section header or a specific clause within the document, located in the middle of the page.

Another line of handwritten text, continuing the document's content, positioned below the middle section.

The final line of handwritten text on the page, located at the bottom, possibly concluding a paragraph or a section.

