

Consequently, certain of our institutions, especially those of the Church, are bound to be abolished. This is the only way to secure the happiness of the people. The people of America are now in a state of great danger, and if they do not act at once, they will be overrun by the British.

The American Revolution was a just cause. It was the right of the people to determine their own destiny.
The British government tried to suppress this right, and the people resisted. They were met with force, but they did not give up.
They fought, and they won. The British government was defeated, and the American Revolution
was successful.

END