

The first thing I observed when I stepped out of the ship was a cold wind blowing from the north. The sea was calm and the sky was clear. I saw many small islands in the distance. The water was a deep blue color. I felt a sense of adventure and excitement. I was about to embark on a new journey.
 The ship was a small sailing vessel.
 It had three masts and a single sail. The crew consisted of about twenty men. They were all experienced sailors. The captain was a man of middle age with a white beard. He was a very kind and gentle man.
 He had a great deal of knowledge of the sea. He was a very good leader. He was a very brave man.
 He was a very wise man. He was a very good friend. He was a very good father. He was a very good man.
