

Handwritten text in a historical script, likely a legal or administrative document. The text is dense and difficult to decipher due to the cursive style and significant water damage at the bottom of the page. The script appears to be a form of Gothic or similar medieval cursive. The document is written on aged, yellowed paper with a large, irregular water stain at the bottom.

Handwritten signature or name, possibly "D. ...", written in a stylized cursive script. The signature is located below the main body of text and is partially obscured by the water damage.
