

nos faceret in partem... (The text is a dense, handwritten Latin document, likely a legal or administrative record, written in a cursive script. It covers the entire page with approximately 35 lines of text. The handwriting is dark and somewhat faded in places, with some ink bleed-through from the reverse side. The text is written in a medieval or early modern Latin style, using various abbreviations and ligatures. The content appears to be a formal declaration or a set of regulations, mentioning various entities and actions. The document is framed by a simple border, and there are some decorative flourishes at the beginning and end of the text.)