

Handwritten text, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page. The script is cursive and difficult to decipher due to the paper's condition and the angle of the page. Some legible fragments include "The first of the month", "the second of the month", and "the third of the month".

Additional handwritten text, also appearing to be bleed-through from the reverse side. The text is very faint and mostly illegible.

