

Handwritten text in a medieval script, possibly Gothic or similar. The text is dense and appears to be a list or a series of entries, with some words being larger and more prominent than others. The ink is dark and the parchment shows signs of age and wear.

A large block of handwritten text, significantly faded and less legible than the top section. It appears to be a continuation of the list or entries seen above, though the individual words are difficult to discern due to fading and the cursive nature of the script.

A line of text, possibly a section header or a specific entry, written in a larger, more formal script. It includes the word "Abala" which is clearly visible.

A section of text containing several lines of entries, some of which are written in a larger, more decorative script. The text is dense and appears to be a list or a series of entries, similar to the top section of the page.

A final section of text at the bottom of the page, including a large, decorative flourish or signature that spans across the width of the text block.

