

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a legal or administrative document. The text is dense and covers most of the page, with some lines crossed out. The script is characteristic of the late 15th or early 16th century. The document appears to be a record of a transaction or a legal agreement, possibly involving land or property, as suggested by the words "pagu" (payment) and "pagu" (land) visible in the text. The text is written in a dark ink on aged, slightly yellowed paper. There are some large, decorative initials or flourishes at the beginning and end of the document. The overall appearance is that of a historical manuscript or record book.
