

Handwritten text in a medieval script, likely Latin or Old French, written on aged and damaged parchment. The text is arranged in approximately 25 lines, with some lines starting with large initial letters. The script is dense and characteristic of the late Middle Ages. The parchment is heavily stained and has irregular, torn edges.

