

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or letter. The text is written on aged, yellowed paper that is heavily damaged and torn, with significant portions missing. The ink is dark brown or black. The script is dense and fills most of the page, though some lines are obscured by the damage. The text appears to be a formal or legal document, possibly a contract or a letter of appointment, given the use of words like "obligatus" and "procurator".

Handwritten text at the bottom left of the page, possibly a date or a reference to another document. It includes words like "anno" and "mense".
