

Faint, mirrored text, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page. The script is a historical cursive, possibly from the 15th or 16th century. The text is mostly illegible due to fading and the condition of the paper.

Large section of the document that is mostly blank or contains extremely faint, illegible text. It shows significant signs of age, including yellowing, foxing, and several large, irregular holes that suggest insect damage or severe water damage.

Bottom section of the document with some faint, illegible text and a signature or scribble on the left side. The paper is heavily damaged with numerous holes and stains.

