

Handwritten text in a medieval script, likely Latin or Spanish, covering the majority of the page. The text is dense and appears to be a formal document or a letter. It is written in a cursive style with some decorative flourishes. The ink is dark, and the paper shows signs of age and wear.

