beverages were made from various plants, and some were toxic; others were medicinal, and some were used as stimulants? In addition to the common tea, which was produced? If any man were weak or had any disease, he would go to the nearest village who was most expert about diseases, and who had the knowledge of making medicines for all kinds of diseases? These medicines were made of roots, bark, leaves, stems, flowers, seeds, and roots of various plants, and were used in different ways, such as boiling them in water, or steeping them in oil, or roasting them over a fire, or drying them and then putting them in a bag and carrying them about with them, so that they could be applied to any part of the body where there was a sore or a wound.
