

Faint, illegible handwriting in a cursive script, possibly from the 17th or 18th century. The text is mirrored across the page, suggesting bleed-through from the reverse side.

A distinct signature or name, written in a cursive hand, located in the middle section of the page. The ink is dark and the script is somewhat stylized.

Large block of very faint, illegible handwriting, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page. The text is too light to read clearly but appears to be organized into several lines.

