

Faint, illegible handwriting in a cursive script, likely from the 17th or 18th century. The text is mostly obscured by a large rectangular piece of paper pasted over the center of the page.

A large rectangular piece of paper, possibly a flyleaf or a separate sheet, is pasted over the center of the page. It contains faint, illegible handwriting in a cursive script, similar to the text on the underlying page. The paper shows signs of age, including discoloration and some staining.

