

The first line of text is heavily obscured by a large, dark ink smudge or bleed-through from the reverse side of the page.

The second line of text is also obscured by a large, dark ink smudge or bleed-through from the reverse side of the page.

The third line of text is obscured by a large, dark ink smudge or bleed-through from the reverse side of the page.

The fourth line of text is obscured by a large, dark ink smudge or bleed-through from the reverse side of the page.

The fifth line of text is obscured by a large, dark ink smudge or bleed-through from the reverse side of the page.

The sixth line of text is obscured by a large, dark ink smudge or bleed-through from the reverse side of the page.

This block contains a small, handwritten note or signature in the left margin, possibly identifying the scribe or a specific section of the document.

