the commoner labour force who were now in great need because of the high cost of living. The cost of living had risen so rapidly that it was now difficult for the workers to buy what they needed. This led to a general strike. The workers demanded higher wages and better working conditions. The strike was successful and the workers won their demands. The strike was a turning point in the history of the country. It showed that the workers were no longer willing to work for less than they deserved.
It also showed that the workers were not afraid to stand up for what they believed in. The strike was a victory for the workers and a defeat for the employers.
