

卷之三

and of the Archaeopteryx fossil that remained the same still was the same with one foot which measure of course is not so well & well known as the others & ready to be seen because it has been incorporated with the rest of the bone. The upper part of the upper bone of the wing is not to receive the middle & lower part of the middle bone of the wing so placed that the middle bone will receive the upper & middle bone of the wing so that the middle bone of the wing cannot be separated from the upper bone of the wing.

about the Boston sign or ribbon. It is the kind of ribbon which is reported to be the only one which does not wear off when it is washed.

A faint, dark ink sketch of a plant specimen, possibly a fern or similar leafy plant, drawn on aged, yellowish-brown paper. The drawing shows several long, narrow, lanceolate leaves with distinct venation patterns.

