

The first part of the manuscript contains several lines of text, some of which are crossed out with diagonal lines. The handwriting is a cursive script, likely from the 16th or 17th century. The text is dense and difficult to decipher due to the style and some fading.

The second part of the page features a large, prominent signature or name, possibly "H. de B. de B.", written in a bold, stylized hand. Below this, there are several more lines of text, some of which are also crossed out.

The bottom section of the page contains a final paragraph of text, which appears to be a concluding statement or a signature block. The handwriting remains consistent with the rest of the document.

