

Salute maritima.

Handwritten text, likely a letter or official document, starting with a circular seal or stamp at the top left. The text is dense and written in a cursive script.

Main body of handwritten text, including several lines of dense script and a large, stylized signature or seal in the middle. The text appears to be a formal document or a list of names and titles.

