

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or letter. The text is written in a dark ink on aged, yellowed paper. It consists of approximately 20 lines of text, with some lines starting with large, decorative initial letters. The script is dense and difficult to decipher without specialized knowledge of the language and dialect. There are some faint markings and bleed-through from the reverse side of the page.

Handwritten signature or name in a cursive script, located at the bottom of the page. The signature is written in a dark ink and is highly stylized, with long, sweeping flourishes. It appears to be a personal name or a title, but the specific words are difficult to identify due to the cursive style.
