

Handwritten text in a medieval script, likely Latin or Old French, covering the majority of the page. The text is written in a cursive hand and is partially obscured by significant damage and a large circular hole.

