

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a list or account. The text is dense and difficult to decipher due to the cursive style and some fading. It appears to be organized into columns or sections.

San Mateo
Superior

Handwritten text, possibly a list of names or items. The script is cursive and somewhat illegible. There are some larger, more distinct words or phrases interspersed among the smaller text.

Handwritten text at the bottom of the page, continuing the list or account. It includes several lines of cursive script, some of which are more clearly legible than the text above.

