

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a title or header, possibly containing the name of the author or the subject of the work.

Handwritten text, possibly a date or a reference number, located below the main title.

Handwritten text, possibly a signature or a name, located below the date or reference.

A large block of handwritten text, which is very faint and difficult to decipher, occupying the middle section of the page.

