

This page contains a dense, handwritten manuscript in a cursive script, likely from the 16th or 17th century. The text is heavily obscured by numerous overlapping scribbles and lines, making it largely illegible. Some faint words and phrases are visible, including "Mogemmo", "Brenbengus", and "Damomallatya". The handwriting is dark and appears to be in ink on aged, slightly yellowed paper.

This section of the manuscript is more legible than the one above. It begins with a large, stylized initial letter, possibly "D" or "D", followed by several lines of text. The script remains cursive but is less cluttered. Some of the visible words include "sensus", "al penson", "garras", "ambeng", and "garras". The text appears to be a list or a series of entries, possibly related to a geographical or administrative record.
