

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or letter. The text is dense and spans most of the page, though some parts are obscured by ink blots and bleed-through from the reverse side. The script is characteristic of the late 16th or early 17th century.

Handwritten signatures and names at the bottom of the page. The most prominent signature is "Benigno" in the center, written in a large, flowing cursive hand. To its right, there is another signature that appears to be "Antonio" or similar. Below these, there are several smaller, less legible signatures and names, including what might be "Antonio" and "Benigno" again. The text is written in the same cursive script as the main body of the document.
