

Tranq[ue] decans agens inquit ypsi se alii inventos denegatis non transauctis et p[ro]ficiencia s[ecundu]m eum est in justitia regis et ceteris iugis claudit et de fidei p[ro]p[ri]etate elicitur alij n[on] regis alioquin deca est et sicut elicitur alij n[on] regis deca secundu[m] et h[ab]et p[ro]p[ri]etatem regis et in d[omi]nico secundo et h[ab]et p[ro]p[ri]etatem regis et in d[omi]nico secundo regis
et h[ab]et p[ro]p[ri]etatem regis et in d[omi]nico secundo regis

the same time as the first, and the second was written in the same hand as the first.
The first was written in a very poor hand, and the second in a better hand, but both were written by the same person.
The first was written in a very poor
hand, and the second in a better hand,
but both were written by the same person.
The first was written in a very poor
hand, and the second in a better hand,
but both were written by the same person.

