

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or manuscript. The text is written in a dark ink on aged, slightly stained paper. It consists of approximately 25 lines of text, with some lines starting with a large initial letter. The script is dense and difficult to decipher without specialized knowledge of the language and dialect. The text appears to be a formal document, possibly a contract or a record of a transaction, given the use of terms like 'libella' and 'capitulum'. The handwriting is consistent throughout, suggesting it was written by a single scribe. There are some corrections and overwriting visible in several places, particularly in the middle and lower sections of the page.

Handwritten text at the bottom of the page, possibly a signature or a date. It includes a large, stylized initial or mark that is partially obscured by a horizontal line. The text is less legible than the main body of the document.

