

This block contains two pages of dense handwritten text in Spanish, primarily in black ink, with some red ink used for headings or signatures. The handwriting is formal and cursive, with many long lines and large letters. The text appears to be a historical document, possibly a grant or a statement of rights, given the formal language and structured layout. There are several large, faint sketches of geometric shapes like squares and circles at the top of the page, which may be architectural or cartographic in nature.

Yo el rey don... en testamento de su muerte...

Yo el rey don... en testamento de su muerte...