

EXCANTO

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a legal or administrative document, covering the top half of the page.

Two distinct signatures or initials, possibly indicating the author or a witness, located below the main block of text.

A large, dense block of handwritten text in cursive script, occupying the lower two-thirds of the page. The text is highly stylized and appears to be a continuation of the document's content.

