

The first part of the manuscript is written in a dense, cursive hand. The text is heavily obscured by large, irregular holes and tears in the parchment, particularly in the center and right-hand side. The remaining fragments of text are difficult to decipher but appear to be organized into several distinct sections or paragraphs.

In the lower portion of the page, there are several lines of text that are more legible than the upper sections. These lines seem to contain specific instructions or a list of items, though the exact words are largely illegible due to the damage and the script.

The right edge of the page shows the binding of the book, with the edges of the following page visible. This page also contains handwritten text, which is partially cut off by the edge of the image.

