

The page contains dense, highly stylized handwritten text in a historical cursive script, likely from a 15th-century manuscript. The text is written in dark ink on aged paper. A large, prominent signature is visible on the right side of the page, appearing to read "Juan de..." followed by a decorative flourish. Another signature, possibly "Alonso...", is written below it. The text is organized into several paragraphs, with some lines crossed out or heavily scribbled over. The bottom of the page shows some more legible words, including "diexen quepa".