

Handwritten text at the top of the page, possibly a title or header, appearing to be mirrored or bleed-through from the reverse side.

Main body of handwritten text in a cursive script, covering most of the page. The text is faint and difficult to decipher, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the leaf.

